This virtual symposium is designed for the entire multidisciplinary team, including neurologists, medical specialists, primary care physicians, nurse practitioners who have an interest in autoimmune neurology disorders.

The program will provide a state-of-the-art update on Autoimmune Neurology offered as a livestream and designed to provide evidence-based strategies that focus on practical and clinical management from a multidisciplinary approach. Latest clinical and laboratory research will be presented through didactic lecture, case vignettes and interactive Q & A with faculty.

Upon conclusion of this program, participants should be able to:

- Cite the mechanism of action and diagnostic challenges associated with autoimmune neurological diseases such as immune-mediated myopathy, neuropathy, and encephalitis.
- Describe the clinical, laboratory, and neuroimaging characteristics of neuromyelitis optica spectrum disorders and myelinoligodendrocyte glycoprotein-associated disorders.
